THE 'GRAF ZEPPELIN' POLAR FLIGHT OF JULY 1931

There were no recorded Zeppelin airship flights that directly involved Newfoundland. Mail to and from the Dominion would have been sent via the USA or Canada, and this postcard addressed to Grand Falls, Newfoundland is one of the few mail items that were part of a mail consignment carried on a particular flight in 1931.

In order to raise funds for an arctic surveying expedition arrangements were made for the 'Graf Zeppelin' airship to rendezvous with a submarine in the north pole region, and there to exchange one proved unfit for the intended trip, even after a refit in Tromsø, Norway. Fortunately the Soviet Union was mounting a scientific expedition to the archipelago of Franz Joseph Land with the icebreaker 'Malgina', which proved a ready-made alternative plan and was readily agreed.

Postcard sent from Stankov, Berlin dated 25.7.31, also bearing the interesting cancel from on board the icebreaker 'Malgina', 27.7.31 in Grand Falls.

On 24th July the 'Graf Zeppelin' took off from Friedrichshafen, Germany and following an overnight stop at Stankov, Berlin to take on more mail and passengers it headed for Leningrad in the USSR. Again it took on more supplies for the Franz Joseph expedition. The flight continued on the 26th, rendezvousing with the 'Malgina' in the bay off Hooker Island, where the exchanging was carried out. Mail taken on board the 'Malgina' received a special handstamp, BRISE GLACE 'MALYGUIN' ARTIQUE 27-7-31. A special cancel was applied to mail items on board the airship. When the icebreaker finally docked the mail was sent to destinations by normal surface routes.

Very few examples of such mail to Newfoundland are known to exist, and all were despatched from Germany. The imprinted postcard stamp on postal stationery such as on this item served no postal purpose. This item cannot be considered a philatelic item of Newfoundland having no recording marks, but nonetheless there is a philatelic link.
